Gen. Rafael de Quesada arrived here yesterday. Rumor has it that he is conneoted with a military expedition now being fitted out, here or elsowhere, for the purpose of invading the Island of Cuba.

Gen. Quesada is a native of the exfaithful island, and has on different occasions materially assisted her cause. About two years ago he landed an expedition composed of two or three hundred South Americans and a valued cargo of arms and amunitions on the coast of Cuba. He placed himself at the head of the devoted band and marched about one hundred leagues into the interior, where he met President Cespedes. On his way thither he encountered the greatest parils, having had to fight the Spanish troops, and to subsist himself and troops in the mountain recesses on horse flesh. More recently he commaded the Virginius expedition, the success of which is well known. Gen. Quesada is a gallant soldier, of a fine military presence, honored and loved in the Cubian army.

but he is ruled out. The old question of the origin of the Nile is, therefore, still debatable. Mr. A. J. Villere, the popular and acomplished Chief Deputy Clerk of the Second District Court, has resigned his position in that office, and will hereafter devote himself to the practice of the law. Mr. Villere, although a learned civil lawyer, has since 1840 had the entire management of the Clerk's office in that tribunal, and made many friends for his affability of manuer, courtesy and strict attention to duty. He will no doubt be very much missed, both byditigants and members of the bar. Sergt. Bates is still unflagging in his mergies, though flagging in his aspirations.
